

Cho Oyu (8210m)

Introduction

Mt. Cho Oyu Expedition (8,201m.) Cho Oyu in Tibetan is “Turquoise God’ which means the turquoise color of the peak in the afternoon sun from the Tibet side of the mountain. But in Nepal it is known as Qowowuyag by the Sherpas. Stands astride the Nepal/Tibet border, just 70 kilometres west of Everest. It is the world's sixth highest mountain and of the fourteen 8,000 metre peaks, it is regarded as one of the most straightforward to climb. due to its straightforward climbing with minimal objective danger and less technically demanding. The mountain would be the best choice for the mountaineers who want to stand on the summit of 8000 meter peak. Cho Oyu climbing has the higher rate of success than any other 8000 meter peak climbing in Nepal & Tibet. The mountain was first climbed by Hebert Tichy in 1954. We arrange both the logistic support to ABC and fully guided Cho Oyu expedition.
